

The Almond Tree

Sun and rain to start the process
How it turns out is anyone's guess
The wind and the rain can be enemy or friend
The rain feeds my roots to help me bend.
Makes my roots stronger and dig deep into the ground
In spring the blossom arrives welcomed by the bees

We don't need frost
or all will be lost

my almonds need
water- in order to survive
each needing a wealth of Adam's Ale
as the days
grow
longer

and the harvesters

The race is on as the birds arrive and summer turns to fall
